The Philadelphia Plan

Statement by the President. December 22, 1969

The House of Representatives now faces an historic and critical civil rights vote.

Tucked into the supplemental appropriations conference report is a provision vesting the Comptroller General with a new quasi-judicial role. The first effect of this proposal will be to kill the "Philadelphia Plan" effort of this administration to open up the building trades to nonwhite citizens. It is argued that the administration seeks to restrict the role of the General Accounting Office and the Comptroller General. This is a false issue.

I wish to assure the Congress and the public of this Nation that I consider the independence of the Comptroller General of the United States of the utmost importance in the separation of powers in our Federal system. The amendment now under discussion by the Congress will not and should not be permitted to bring this principle into any doubt.

Of course, in the conduct of his independent review of all executive actions, the Comptroller General may raise, and has often raised, questions about the legality of Federal contracts and whether funds, according to the law, should be spent under such contracts. The Executive has always, will always, give the fullest attention to his recommendations and his rulings.

When rulings differ, however, when the chief legal officer of the executive branch and the chief watchdog of the Congress end up with opposing views on the same matter of law, the place for resolution of such differences, is the courts—just as it is for the resolution of differences between private citizens.

The amendment as presently written makes a court review extremely difficult, even questionable. For example, 14 contracts have been let under the Philadelphia Plan. If the amendment passes, these contracts will have to be canceled. If the contractors should not elect to sue, the executive branch of the Federal Government could not—and the matter would not reach the courts unless a member of my Cabinet were intentionally to violate the law.

The position I am taking is, therefore, that the amendment need not be stricken but that it should be modified to permit prompt court review of any difference between legal opinions of the Comptroller General and those of the Executive, and to permit the Comptroller General to have his own counsel (rather than the Attorney General) to represent him in such cases.

To be quite candid, I share the Attorney General's serious doubts as to the constitutionality of this amendment and may have to withhold my signature from any legislation containing it.

National Center for Voluntary Action

Announcement of Designation of Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson as President of the Center. December 22, 1969

The President today announced that Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson will take on the key role in coordinating the administration's voluntary action program.

Wilkinson will become President of the National Center for Voluntary Action. He will continue as Special Consultant to the President.

The National Center is a privately-funded, nonprofit, and nonpartisan organization conceived to carry out the private sector's share of the partnership between the government and private citizens in voluntary activity. Government's side of the partnership is centered in the Office of Voluntary Action. In his new dual role Wilkinson will direct the teamwork of these two operations. As he takes on the new post, he will carry through to completion the projects in which he has been involved, notably youth activities.

The purpose of the administration's national program for voluntary action is to encourage and aid voluntary action, not to direct or subsidize it. The concept was developed by George Romney, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, who acted as the Chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Voluntary Action, and Max M. Fisher of Detroit, the President's Special Consultant on Voluntary Action. Secretary Romney has responsibility for the Office of Voluntary Action. Fisher will serve as Chairman of the National Center.

The total National Program for Voluntary Action, on both the private and governmental sides, aims to:

—Help motivate vast numbers of citizens throughout the country to get involved in a wide variety of local voluntary efforts.

—Collect and transmit successful experience and expertise for strengthening voluntary action at all levels.

—Stimulate all governmental levels to cooperate fully in voluntary efforts.

—Achieve greater recognition of the role of voluntary action and those individuals, organizations, and communities which excel in their contributions.

The President places the highest priority on this program as a means of involving many more individual Americans in helping to find solutions to problems and enhance the quality of life not only in their own neighborhoods and communities but also in their States and in the Nation.

Wilkinson, 53, was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1937 and received an M.A. degree from Syracuse in 1940. He was assistant football coach at Syracuse from 1937–1940 and at the University of Minnesota in 1941. He became head coach at the University of Oklahoma in 1947 where he remained until 1964, when he resigned to become a Republican candidate for United States Senate from Oklahoma. From 1942–1945 he served in the United States Navy on board the aircraft carrier Enterprise as a hangar deck officer.

Wilkinson is married to the former Mary Shifflett and they have two children.

United States Ambassador to Ceylon and the Maldive Republic

Announcement of Intention To Nominate Robert Strausz-Hupé of Pennsylvania. December 22, 1969

The President today announced his intention to nominate Robert Strausz-Hupé, of Newtown Square, Pa., to be United States Ambassador to Ceylon and to the Maldive Republic. An educator and author, Dr. Strausz-Hupé will succeed Ambassador Andrew V. Corry, who is retiring.

Dr. Strausz-Hupé's earlier nomination as Ambassador to the Kingdom of Morocco is being withdrawn.

Born in Vienna, Austria, on March 25, 1903, Dr. Strausz-Hupé came to the United States in 1923 and was naturalized in 1938. He attended the University of Pennsylvania (A.M., Ph. D., 1944). He is married to the former Eleanor deGraff Cuyler.

Engaged in investment banking in 1927 to 1937, Dr. Strausz-Hupé was associate editor of "Current History" in 1939–41; during 1946–52, he was associate professor of political science at the University of Pennsylvania, a professor since 1952 and special lecturer during 1940–46. He has been director of the Foreign Policy Research Institute at the University since 1952. Dr. Strausz-Hupé is director of the Atlantic Council of the United States; member of the Research Council of the Atlantic Institute; a lieutenant colonel AUS, retired; a Fellow of the Royal Geographic Society; member of the American Political Science Association; and member of the Council on Foreign Relations.

He is author of: The Russian-German Riddle (1940); Axis America (1941); Geopolitics (1942); The Balance of Tomorrow (1945); International Relations (1950); The Zone of Indifference (1952); Power and Country (1956); (with Kintner, Cottrell and Dougherty), Protracted Conflict (1959); A Forward Strategy for America (with Kintner, Possony, 1961); (with others, 1963) Building the Atlantic World.

He has been editor of "The Idea of Colonialism" (1958) and "Orbis" (1964).

Under Secretary of State for Western Hemisphere Affairs

Statement by the President Urging Establishment of the Position. December 22, 1969

The United States has long had a special concern for its relations with the other nations of the Western Hemisphere. Our relationship has been forged by ties of geography, history, and common interests and aspirations. It is embodied in the web of treaties and commitments that constitute the inter-American system. Above all, the nations of the hemisphere share a common commitment to improve the quality of life for all the peoples of this hemisphere.

To meet the pressing needs of the decade ahead, I have proposed that the nations of the inter-American system develop—in a more mature partnership—a program of Action for Progress in the 1970's. We have made a start, and are continuing a process of consultation with our hemisphere neighbors, in the crucial areas of expanding trade and accelerating development.

To fulfill more effectively our commitment in this new partnership program will require a significant reorganization and upgrading of our governmental structure dealing with Western Hemisphere affairs. The proposal which the Secretary of State submitted to the Congress on December 20 to establish an Under Secretary of State for Western Hemisphere Affairs is a key element of that effort. It is an important first step designed to:

—produce more effective and efficient implementation of new policy approaches in the Western Hemisphere. The new Under Secretary will be given authority to coordinate all U.S. Government activities in the Western Hemisphere.

—create one place in the U.S. Government where other hemisphere nations can come to discuss their problems. The new Under Secretary will have the personal authority and responsibility to speed decisions and be responsive to the concerns of our hemisphere partners.

—signify to the nations of the hemisphere the special importance we attach to our relations with them. The new Under Secretary will have the stature and authority to symbolize our commitment to the special Western Hemisphere relationship.

The proposal to establish an Under Secretary for Western Hemisphere Affairs has received wide approval in the hemisphere. It is a step which is long overdue. Early passage of the proposed amendment by the Congress will help to demonstrate our good faith and serious intentions in the quest for a better life for the peoples of the hemisphere.

Foreign Claims Settlement Commission of the United States

Announcement of Intention To Nominate Lyle S. Garlock as Member and Chairman. December 22, 1969

The President today announced his intention to nominate Lyle S. Garlock of Arlington, Va., to be a member of the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission of the United States for a term of 3 years. He will succeed Leonard v. B. Sutton, whose term has expired. Upon confirmation by the Senate, the President intends to designate Garlock to be Chairman of the Commission.

The Commission was established in 1954 for the purpose of determining claims of U.S. nationals against foreign governments for compensation for losses and injuries sustained by them pursuant to programs authorized by either the International Claims Settlement Act of 1949 or the War Claims Act of 1948.

Garlock, 62, has been the Washington representative for Eastern Airlines since 1961. He was graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1931. Following graduation, he participated in a program to develop an occupational dictionary. In 1936, Garlock became field representative for the U.S. Employment Service in the southeastern United States. From 1942–1944, he served in the United States Navy, assigned to the Office of the Secretary of the Navy. He then became Assistant Director for Administration of the U.S. Employment Service, a position he held until 1948 when he became the Budget Officer and Deputy Comptroller for the Department of Defense. In 1954, Garlock became Assistant Secretary of the Air Force for Financial Management.

Garlock is married and has two children.

Administration of Foreign Military Sales

Announcement of Executive Order 11501 Delegating Certain Functions to the Secretaries of State and Defense. December 22, 1969

The President has signed an Executive Order delegating to the Secretaries of State and Defense certain functions conferred upon him for the administration of the Foreign Military Sales Act. This Act authorizes the President to sell defense articles and services to other countries and international organizations found by him to be eligible for such sales under the provisions of the act. Prior to July 1, 1968, a similar authority for United States Government military sales was contained in the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended.

While retaining ultimate authority for major policy decisions, the President delegates to the Secretary of State the responsibiliy for general policy supervision, and delegates to the Secretary of Defense the general operational responsibility under the Act. The Order also calls for consultation by the Secretaries of State and Defense with the Secretary of the Treasury, the Administrator of the Agency for International Development, and the Director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency on matters pertaining to their responsibilities.

The Executive order establishes the basis for developing procedures in the Executive Agencies concerned for effective administration of the Foreign Military Sales Act in accordance with the foreign, military, national security, and financial policies of the United States. Under the act it is U.S. policy to encourage regional arms control and disarmament agreements and to discourage arms races, and to facilitate cooperation in defense matters between the United States and friendly countries with the goal of more efficient use of resources for common defense requirements.

The Philadelphia Plan

Statement by the President Following Congressional Action. December 23, 1969

I am deeply gratified that the Congress has acted responsibly to allow continuation of the Philadelphia Plan and our program of positive steps to assure equal job opportunity. The Members of the Congress who contributed to this wise action have my thanks and congratulations.

There is no civil right more central to the American system than the right of equal opportunity. Every American should have equal opportunity for new jobs created by the taxes paid by all Americans. I have worked for implementation of this principle since 1953 when President Eisenhower appointed me Chairman of the President's Committee on Government Contracts. This administration is determined to see that this right—so long denied or given lip service—becomes national policy.

The Philadelphia Plan has been opening new jobs for minority workers in the construction industry—an industry with a severe labor shortage in skilled crafts. With this action by the Congress, this program of economic opportunity can go forward as planned.

Special Consultant to the President for Systems Analysis

Announcement of Appointment of Martin Anderson. December 23, 1969

The President today appointed Martin Anderson to serve as Special Consultant to the President for Systems Analysis. His office will study and evaluate new and existing programs, and work with the Domestic Affairs Staff in presenting policy alternatives to the President. Emphasis will be placed on identifying the options available to the President, determining the costs and benefits of these options, and using cost-effectiveness analysis to evaluate the probable effects of alternative resource allocations.

Anderson graduated summa cum laude from Dartmouth College in 1957, received his M.S. from the Thayer School of Engineering and the Amos Tuck School of Business in 1958, and his Ph. D. from M.I.T. in 1962. In 1961–1962 he was a research fellow at the Joint Center for Urban Studies of M.I.T. and Harvard University. From 1962 to 1968 he was on the faculty of the Columbia University Graduate School of Business where he was an associate professor of business. He is the author of The Federal Bulldozer: A Critical Analysis of Urban Renewal, 1949–62, published by the M.I.T. Press in 1964.

Anderson, who was director of research in the 1968 Nixon Presidential campaign, has been acting as deputy to Arthur F. Burns, Counsellor to the President. The transition to his new position will be coordinated with the move of Dr. Burns to the Federal Reserve Board.

Presidential Unit Citation

Announcement of Award to U.S.S. "Harnett County" (LST-821). December 23, 1969

The President today awarded the Presidential Unit Citation to U.S.S. Harnett County (LST-821) for extraordinary achievement while participating in combat operations in Southeast Asia in support of United States national policy during the period 12 December 1968 to 30 April 1969.

U.S.S. Harnett County (LST-821) was cited for its outstanding performance of duty while providing both primary and secondary support to the combat units of the riverine forces. This support required operations in very restricted waters many miles from the sea. Harnett County was in constant danger as she performed her hazardous mission, providing tactical and naval operations centers, communications facilities, and the supply and repair facilities required to keep the maximum number of river boats operational. As a result, the operations which Harnett County participated in were considered the most successful river campaigns conducted in the Mekong Delta.

The citation follows:

By virtue of the authority vested in me as President of the United States and as Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces of the United States, I have today awarded

THE PRESIDENTIAL UNIT CITATION (NAVY)
FOR EXTRAORDINARY HEROISM TO
USS HARNETT COUNTY (LST-821)

USS HARNETT COUNTY distinguished herself by extraordinary heroism in actions against hostile forces in the Republic of Vietnam during the period 12 December 1968 to 30 April 1969. Although landlocked and immobile some twenty-five miles from the sea, and consequently a lucrative target for a resourceful and determined enemy, USS HARNETT COUNTY nonetheless succeeded in providing excellent secondary support to the combat units of the riverine forces involved in one of the most successful river campaigns of the conflict. The ship's performance was superb in every phase of her diverse actions. Supporting both United States and Vietnamese naval units, HARNETT COUNTY provided tactical and naval operations centers that were models of efficiency and materially aided the entire operation of the Vam Co Dong River portion of Operation GIANT SLINGSHOT. Included among the many services which HARNETT COUNTY rendered were those in connection with communications, supply, repair, security, fueling and rearming for helicopter gunships, medical evacuation station, and harassment and interdiction fire. Through her invaluable support efforts, HARNETT COUNTY contributed materially to the success of riverine forces in accounting for numerous enemy casualties and the capture of vital guns and equipment. Despite long dangerous hours, difficult heavy labor under the most trying conditions, night sessions at battle stations while awaiting enemy attack, fierce enemy rocket barrages, personnel and material casualties, and the ever-present danger of mines, the morale and esprit de corps of her officers and men never faltered. Their extraordinary performance and selfless dedication throughout this period were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service.

Christmas Holiday for Federal Employees

Executive Order 11503. December 23, 1969

EXCUSING FEDERAL EMPLOYEES FROM DUTY ON DECEMBER 26, 1969

By virtue of the authority vested in me as President of the United States, it is hereby ordered as follows:

SEC. 1. Employees of the several executive departments, independent establishments, and other governmental agencies, including the General Accounting Office and the Government Printing Office, and their field services (except those employees of the Department of State, the Department of Defense, or other agencies who in the judgment of their agency heads should be at their posts of duty for national security or other public reasons, and those employees whose absence from duty would be inconsistent with the provisions of existing law) shall be excused from duty on Friday, December 26, 1969, the day following Christmas Day. Such day shall be considered a holiday within the meaning of Executive Order No. 10358 of June 9, 1952, as amended, and of all statutes so far as they relate to the compensation and leave of employees of the United States.

SEC. 2. The heads of departments, agencies, and independent establishments shall, to the extent consistent with the needs of the service, adopt a liberal policy for the granting of annual leave to all employees who wish to take such leave over the holiday period.

Duties on Chemicals

Announcement of Signing of Proclamation Interrupting Certain Duty Reductions Negotiated in the Kennedy Round. December 24, 1969

The President today signed a proclamation interrupting the duty reductions on certain chemicals negotiated in the Kennedy Round. This proclamation is necessary at this time because the Agreement Relating Principally to Chemicals, Supplementary to the 1967 Geneva Protocol to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (the so-called ASP agreement), has not yet been implemented by the United States. The proposed proclamation preserves the status quo in chemical tariffs pending approval of the ASP agreement by the Congress. The President requested this approval in his trade message of November 18.

The ASP agreement provides that, if it were not implemented prior to January 1, 1970, the United States would delay reducing its tariff levels on a prescribed group of chemicals, since other countries would also be able to delay tariff reductions on items covered by the ASP agreement. The proposed proclamation takes notice of the nonimplementation and provides for postponing the reductions of these tariffs until the implementation of the ASP agreement. This delay on specific chemical duties does not affect the widespread general tariff reductions negotiated in the Kennedy Round, which will continue as scheduled.

NOTE: For the text of the proclamation, see the following item.

3. WHEREAS the Schedules of the European Economic Community and the United Kingdom annexed to the Geneva (1967) Protocol provide that the continuation of certain concessions set forth in Chapters 28 through 39 of such Schedules shall be conditional upon the elimination by the United States of the American selling price system of valuation as the basis for determining the dutiable value of certain chemicals (Sched. XL, general notes, par. 7; Sched. XIX, sec. A, pt. I, par. 6, 19 UST (pt. 3), pp. 2956, 3266, 19 UST (pt. 1), p. 788, as provided for in Part II of the Agreement Relating Principally to Chemicals Supplementary to the Geneva (1967) Protocol (H. Doc. 184, 90th Cong., 1st sess., p. 3613));

4. WHEREAS the American selling price system of valuation will not have been so eliminated at the close of December 31, 1969; and

5. WHEREAS I have been informed that, at the close of December 31, 1969 (which will be the expiration of the period of two years commencing on January 1, 1968, the effective date of the concessions provided for in each item in Part I of Schedule XX to the Geneva (1967) Protocol listed in general note 3(f) set forth in the second recital of this proclamation), the European

Economic Community and the United Kingdom will not continue beyond the second stage all the concessions in Chapters 28 through 39 of their respective Schedules annexed to the Geneva (1967) Protocol;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RICHARD NIXON, President of the United States of America, acting under the authority vested in me by the Constitution and the statutes, including but not limited to Section 201 of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, and in accordance with general note 3(f) to Schedule XX to the Geneva (1967) Protocol and the note implementing it at the end of Annex III to the Proclamation of December 16, 1967, do proclaim that:

(1) upon the expiration of December 31, 1969, the European Economic Community and the United Kingdom will not continue beyond the second stage all the concessions in Chapters 28 through 39 of their respective Schedules to the Geneva (1967) Protocol, and, as a result thereof,

(2) the rate of duty set forth opposite the number of each item of the Tariff Schedules of the United States listed in the Annex to this proclamation (which is the second stage of the concession provided for in Schedule XX and the rate in the 1969 column in Annex III to the proclamation of December 16, 1967) shall, on and after January 1, 1970, continue in effect in column numbered 1 of each such item unless and until the President proclaims that the European Economic Community and the United Kingdom have agreed to proceed with the further reductions for all the chemical concessions provided for in Chapters 28 through 39 of their Schedules.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this 24th day of December in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-nine, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninety-fourth.

RICHARD NIXON

The White House

NOTE: The annex to the proclamation, "Items in the Tariff Schedules of the United States and the Column 1 Rates of Duty Therefor," will be published in the Federal Register of December 30, 1969.

Interest, Credit, and Lending

Statement by the President Upon Signing S. 2577. December 24, 1969

As enacted by the Congress, S. 2577 contains a number of provisions that the administration did not request and does not desire. However, despite my serious reservations and objections about these provisions, one provision of the bill is of such overwhelming urgency that I must reluctantly give the total legislation my approval. That provision preserves the authority of Federal supervisory agencies to regulate rates of interest paid on accounts at banks and savings and loan associations. That authority is essential to avoid the risk of destructive competition among these institutions.

The Congress could have acted responsibly on this problem merely by extending the authority to regulate these interest rates. However, the Congress chose to do otherwise and included provisions that are both unnecessary and undesirable.

Three provisions either require or increase the likelihood of additional budget outlays at a time when responsible fiscal policy and control of inflation demand restraint:

1. Authority for the Secretary of the Treasury to lend an additional $3 billion to the Federal home loan banks.
2. A reduction in the insurance premiums for Federal savings and loan insurance, which has the effect of increasing budget outlays by $63 million in fiscal year 1970 and $102 million in 1971.
3. An increase of $70 million in the level of lending by the Small Business Administration to small business investment companies in fiscal year 1970.

Two provisions of the bill would authorize voluntary and mandatory credit controls, which, if invoked, would take the Nation a long step toward a directly controlled economy and would weaken the will for needed fiscal and financial discipline.

These aspects of the bill made the decision to sign it a very difficult one, but the need to prevent chaos in our interest rate situation has made my approval imperative.

NOTE: As enacted, the bill (S. 2577) is Public Law 91-151 approved December 23, 1969.

The Vice President's Trip to Asia

The President's Remarks at a News Briefing on Vice President Agnew's Forthcoming Trip. December 24, 1969

Ladies and gentlemen:

This meeting with the press brings back reminiscences for me, because I recall when I was in my first year as Vice President, when President Eisenhower sent me on a trip to Asia, a trip which took me clear around the world and which was really my first opportunity to see that part of the world except for service in World War II.

The Vice President is now going to leave on a trip to Asia, which will take him to a number of countries, 37,000 miles, which is more than around the world, although he will be coming back from Asia to the United States directly rather than going on around.

We have the map here just to give you an indication of the scope of the trip. I should say that in selecting the countries that the Vice President is visiting, the Philippines was selected first, because he is going there as the representative of the President to the inauguration of President Marcos. The other countries in Asia are for the most part nations that I was unable to visit on my recent Asian trip and in fact, he will be visiting one country, Nepal, that I have never visited. That is quite unusual.

In terms of where he would be going, the map of course is self-explanatory.

He will be swinging out across the Pacific, stopping at Guam, going first to the Philippines, then to the Republic of China, to Thailand, Nepal, Afghanistan, Malaysia, Singapore, Indonesia, Australia, New Zealand, and then back to the United States.

The Vice President will be taking messages to each of the heads of state and and heads of government from me to them. He will be prepared to discuss bilateral matters between the United States and the various governments involved, and he also will be prepared to talk to the leaders there with regard to the Nixon Doctrine, which I announced on my trip to Asia at Guam.

In addition to that, I have asked him particularly to emphasize in his talks with Asian leaders the desire of the United States to develop programs, economic programs and other programs, for Asian development after Vietnam.

The Vice President will be prepared to have such discussions with each of the Asian leaders wherever they may be interested in those subjects.

It is a 3-week trip. He will be returning in time for the beginning of the next session, and I wish him very well and I only wish that I could go along with him, because I have some very pleasant memories of those countries that I visited.

So, we wish you a good trip and a safe return. We might need that one vote margin in the Senate.

NOTE: The President spoke at 12:41 p.m. in the Roosevelt Room at the White House. Following his remarks, the Vice President made a statement and answered questions on his itinerary and plans. As printed above, this item follows the text of the White House press release.
